Obituary

David A. Vardaman Sr. was born on November 27, 1963 in Midwest City, Oklahoma to John J. Vardaman and Helen R. (Brooks) Vardaman. He entered into his eternal rest on March 6, 2015. Many who knew David knew that he was an honorable man. If you ever needed anything, David would be there to help one hundred percent of the time. He had a knack for placing others before him and always made sure that others were cared for. David was the type of individual that you wanted to have in your corner, not just because he was so well respected, but because you knew he would have your back. His heart was made for honor, love, and God; he not only showed this in his lifestyle, but in his career as well. David was a retired Veteran from the United States Army and was very proud of the time he served to protect his country and the people he cherished. David enjoyed watching sporting events; some of his favorite teams include the Oklahoma City Thunder, the University of Oklahoma (O.U.), and the Denver Broncos. David also enjoyed watching movies, and as far as he was concerned if it wasn't an action movie it wasn't a movie at all. David truly found pleasure in the simple things in life but nothing gave him more joy than his family, especially his grandbabies. It is rare to find a gentleman of this magnitude, he was someone who truly cared, protected and enjoyed his loved ones. David, you were the best Dad that anyone could wish for and we honor you with our love and cherish your memory. David is preceded in death by his mother, Helen R. (Brooks) Vardaman; the love of his life, Susan Stoddard; and his nephew Rory Vardaman. David is survived by his father John J. Vardaman; two sons: Adam Vardaman and his wife Lela; and David Vardaman Jr.; four brothers: Bruce Vardaman and wife Kim, Ron Vardaman and wife Deniece, Rick Vardaman and wife Violet, and Scott Vardaman and wife Rachael; nineteen precious grandchildren; and many other family members and friends.
